

Please allow the Kerry-Edwards ticket equal time in your programming. The normative character of politics makes it clear that people can become headstrong, even fanatical, if not given a balanced interpretation of facts. Our nation has remained stable with a two-party system. With challenges of increased population growth, international crises, and economic competition at all levels, people need unbiased information. Otherwise, why not let Uncle Guido and the Mafia run the show? Please search your souls and give the Democrats equal time.
